Cooperative Forecasting

Transportation Data Books

October 23, 2019

BMC

What & Why

- Serve as a quick reference for jurisdiction-wide and regional data.

- Pertinent information gathered in one source.

- Benchmark for useful comparisons between jurisdictions and metropolitan statistical areas.

BMC   BRTB

Format

- Accessible - Easy to read

- Interesting graphics

- Useful information

- Easy to compare and contrast

BMC

Sections

- ## Who We Are & Where We Live
  - Population (1900-2045); Population Density
  - Race
  - Income: HH income, HH poverty, Poverty rate
  - Housing: Type, Cost burden, Mortgage & Rental Cost burden,
  - Educational attainment by generation

- ## Where We Work
  - Employment: Employment map, Top employers, Unemployment
  - Economy: Residential & Non Residential Permit data, GDP

- ## How We Get Around
  - Commuting: Commutation patterns, Commute flows, Traffic bottlenecks, Travel Time, Mode share, Transit usage, Bike facilities

What's Next?

- Seeking input.
- Finalize data points & print version.
- Determine interest in digital version.

BMC

For More Information

Don Halligan | Senior Transportation Planner

410-732-0500, x1002 | dhalligan@baltometro.org | www.baltometro.org

@BALTOMETROCOUNCIL   @BALTIMORE METROPOLITAN COUNCIL   @BALTIMORE METROPOLITAN COUNCIL